

California Crime and Intelligence Analysts Association ANALYTICAL PRODUCT CONTEST

To be presented at the 2023 CCIAA Training Conference in San Diego, CA

The CCIAA State Board is now accepting submissions for the 2023 CCIAA Analytical Product Contest. If your analytical product has received great reviews from your agency, other agencies, or your peers – please submit an entry today! Take this opportunity to gain recognition for your hard work at the state level. Awards will be presented during opening ceremonies at the 2023 CCIAA Training Conference.

Submission Deadline: Tuesday, August 1, 2023

Tactical Crime Bulletin: Bulletins that were created for patrol or investigations divisions to aid in solving a crime pattern. This includes crime series, sprees, and suspect information. These bulletins are generally no more than two (2) pages.

Intelligence Product: Products created with the intent of providing further information on a person, place, event, etc. after analyzing and understanding data pertaining to the subject. Examples could be based on gang, terrorism, or homeland security intelligence analysis. These may include daily, weekly, or monthly briefs, requests for information (RFIs), summaries, assessments, situational intelligence reports (SIRs), or post incident analysis, just to name a few.

Crime Maps: Maps that represent a crime trend, pattern or series, or cell phone analysis. Analysis should be included in the map, as well as basic map components.

Statistical Reports: Statistical products that describe, estimate, forecast, or analyze the characteristics of crime, deployment, trends, or any other law enforcement related study.

ANALYTICAL PRODUCT CONTEST RULES & SUBMISSION GUIDELINES

- Author(s) must be active CCIAA members
